

Independently Advancing Transportation Safety - NTSB

Two NTSB accident investigators will highlight some recent accidents, how they happened, the decisions made and the results. WE don't wake up before a flight and say, "I'm going to have an accident today". What usually happens is a series of poor decisions connect with one another and make an accident chain. Break the chain and the accident won't have as much potential to happen. Come and learn from experts in the field of accident reconstruction.
